High Level Goals

- To provide a platform for people to read, create, and share stories

- To give people an opportunity to practice and improve their writing

User Stories for Release

- Sprint 1

    o None - Set up/learn working environment and languages

- Sprint 2

    o 2 – As a developer, I want to know the final design of the website so that it will inform future development.

    o 5 – As a user, I want to write and post story snippets to a platform where they will then be stored.

    o 8 – As a user, I want the ability to log into this website for personal use.

- Sprint 3

  - 5 – As a user, I want to add to other stories with my own snippets.

  - 5 – As a user, I want to easily find other snippets, so I can add onto them.

  - 3 – As a user, I want to name my stories so that I can keep track of them later.

  - 2 – As a user, I want to "finish" stories that have had a certain number of snippets posted.

  - 7 – As a user, I want a personal profile page where I can update information about myself, so that other users might get to know me.

- Sprint 4

  - 5 – As a user, I want the option to write and post my own viewable complete stories to my profile, if I feel confident in, or want to showcase my own writing.

  - 5 – As a user, I want the website to look visually organized and aesthetically pleasant, so that it is simple and easy for me to use.

  - 5 – As a user, I want to see what snippets I have posted to other stories in the past, and maybe check how they have been coming along.

  - 6 – As a user, I want to view other stories by post date, popularity, number of snippets, and genre, so I can find what is relevant to me.

Product Backlog

- 3 – As a user, I want to identify a genre that my story should fall under, which   other genre enthusiasts can later find.

- 3 – As a user, I want to like and dislike snippets that stand out to me.

- 3 – As a user, I want to see the most popular additions to any given snippet.

- 7 – As a user, I want to make other contributions to snippets I see with a story already attached, if I'm not satisfied with how they have progressed.
- 5 – As a user, I want to receive notifications when a new snippet is added to one of my stories or snippets.
